volume 5

"song" (life)
dedicated to father paul the refrain, concluding yet beginning
a new verse of our life.

got a stapler?

keep it clean!

the all-encompassing look

pucker power

you know, là?

the death march

turn down the volume.
i'm reading.

after that class
i need a drink.

nobody can pull anything off behind my back.

up, up and away

oh you've got to be kidding!

that's good!

they'll never find it here.

"another day,
another number."

peanut butter . . . stuck again!

here a spurt, there a spurt.

tongue in cheek

i'll trade ya this for some tin foil.

let's look closer . . .

agony

did you
bring the dice?

my hero

monday morning 8:05

let's see now. $5 for the corsage, $12 for the tux . . .

"jump julie,
i'll catch you."

that entertainment tax
sure wasn't worth it.

song

but we've the may (for you are in love
and i am) to sing,
my darling: while
old worlds and young (big little and all
worlds) merely have the must to say

and the when to do
is exactly theirs (dull worlds or keen;
big little and all)
but lose or win
(come heaven, come hell)
precisely ours
is the now to grow

it's love by whom (my beautiful friend)
the gift to live
is without until:
but pitiful they've (big little and all)
no power beyond
the trick to seem

their joys turn woes
and right goes wrong (dim worlds or bright;
big little and all)
whereas (my sweet)
our summer in fall
and winter our spring
is the yes of yes

love was and shall be this only truth
(a dream of deed,
born not to die)
but worlds are made of
hello and goodbye;
glad sorry or both (big little and all)

mr. frederick morin

a friend is one, who strives to make you more yourself.

sr. beverly brazauskas

sr. katherine lindstrand

it is easy to follow one,
who can lead,
and who can turn to follow.

guidance and laughter,
and she'll happily find your way.

sr. patricia christopher

sr. elizabeth dulac

to teach us to think,
is to make our world more.

mr. john mullan

he was always there to turn to,
many turned,
never turned down.

miss madelyn trudeau

we have seen much,
through her eyes,
but seen what was there.

sr. joyce smith

to learn what man
knows of himself,
is to be more of a man.

sr. helen champagne

what greater thing
than to discover the mind, and see it before you
on paper.

develop a person,
but it is not complete,
until you have reached
his inner substance.

sr. miriam patrice

one can make joy,
if he feels it in himself,
and shares it with others.

sr. bernadette lemoine

mr. bernard dube

willingness to help,
means a person,
one in himself, but for others.

mr. john creamer

he knew us well,
because he was in search, also,

to give some
an understanding of life, greater still.

sr. marie thèrése

her confidence in us, has made us more of what we are.

sr. jeanne beliveau

devotion . . .
it can never be wasted.

sr. imelda maria

she could laugh and cry with us at what was on the inside.

sr. jeannette gagnon to teach one to be a person, one must, first, be a person.

mrs. salisbury

if we were little children we would, perhaps, gather dandelions to tell you this . . .
but age restricts us to the printed page.
still, we'd like to say,
mindless of sophistication,
"gee, you've both been great!"

who make it easier to live.

"Those Were The Days My Friend"

Someday, you'll repeat these words, as you thumb through your high school yearbook. Those WERE the days, too . . . happy ones for the most part. Days worth remembering! And there will be more days like that ahead, too. So, as you make each new scene, take each new day as it comes -- with courage and confidence.
